

Call for Proposals

EUR 3 million for GMP production of clinical study material

until Sept. 23, 2022

ForTra gGmbH für Forschungstransfer (ForTra), a subsidiary of the Else Kröner-Fresenius-Stiftung (EKFS), is announcing a call for proposals to produce active compounds under Good Manufacturing Practice (GMP) conditions which are intended to be subsequently utilized in a clinical study involving patients.

The implementation of clinical studies is a cost-intensive and mandatory step on the path to translating new medications into clinical application. ForTra is going to enable individual innovative projects that address a high medical need to carry out a clinical study by financially supporting the production of the given study material under GMP conditions as prescribed by law. The entire production process or individual parts thereof shall be funded for a variety of active compound classes, preferentially for molecules from the area of synthetic chemistry ("small molecules", peptides, oligonucleotides, RNA, etc.). Up to three million euros are envisaged for the whole call for proposals.

Eligible to submit proposals for non-profit funding by ForTra are clinician and medical scientists employed by academic research facilities (hospital clinics, research institutes, etc.) or other non-profit scientific entities.

The selection procedure for funded projects occurs in two steps: Proposal outlines can be submitted via email until September 23, 2022 to antrag-translatorik@ekfs.de. Information regarding the details of proposal submission can be found at the website.

An external panel of expert reviewers uses the outlines to identify individual projects whose principal investigators are subsequently requested to submit a full application. Following assessment and recommendation of the full applications by the expert reviewers and approval by the Foundation Board, ForTra will send out the positive evaluation and financing decisions presumably by the end of the year 2022.

ForTra gGmbH für Forschungstransfer der Else Kröner-Fresenius-Stiftung (EKFS) is a subsidiary of EKFS that is recognised as a non-profit organisation under German tax law. The purpose of the company is the promotion of medical science and research, as well as the promotion of public health, by transferring medical research results into clinical application for the benefit of patients and public healthcare.
